RELIGIOUS STATESMEN. Legislators who Figure More in Church

ton Cor. Phila. Times.

As far as appearances go the most re ligious men in either branch of Congres are the two Senators from Georgia. Mr. Colquitt figures in every meeting that is held hereabouts, addresses church con ventions much oftener than his fellowventions much oftener than his fellowSenators and is one of the Young Men's Christian Association. Within the past month he has spoken before the Young Meñ's Christian Association in Twentythirdstreet and in Sowery, New York; at Philadelphia, Atlanta, Baltimore and Richmond. He is a regular attendant at the Foundry Church in this city. Every Sunday morning and evening his tall figure can be seen in the front seat with his handsome wife beside him, leading the singing and ultering the most fervent amens. At his home in Atlanta he is a deacon and often speaks from the church platform. Of late he has been frequently dropping into the little missions scattered over Washington. A few nights ago he led the prayer meeting at the "Central Mission," in the lower part of the avenue, and gave his "testimony" with the and gave his "testimony" with the humblest present. He is often seen, too, at the mission in South Washington, where the most hardened sinners are sup-

There the most narronece anners are sup-osed to congregate.
His colleague, while not so much of a nissionary, exhibits a great deal of piete your occasions. He is a regular delegate to all the Baptist conventions and does a considerable amount of lay preaching. Most of the Baptist papers in the United States nave printed contributions of his over the initials "J. E. B." In the Baptist convennave printed contributions of his over the initials "J. E. B." In the Baptist convention held some time ago in this city he proved his plety to be of a substantial order by strongly advocating the establishment of a fund for the purpose of raising all ministers' salaries to $i,000 a year, and by offering to start the fund with a $1,000 check. The Senator makes a far batter appearance talking to a religious body than when addressing the Senate. He is a venerable old man with a long Santa Claus beard, and recalls the portraits of preachers in the days of John Wesley, the can pray as few men can. His forvency is filustrated by a frequent raising of the eyes to Heaven, extended and tightly clasped hands, and a voice that vibrates with passionate entrenty. In the Senate, as everybody knows, he is duller than even Blair.

There is one more Senator who is particularly old for his expressional descriptions.

There is one more Senator who is parti-There is one more Senator who is parti-cularly noted for his scruppilous discharge of church duties. This is Warner Miller, of New York. He is a regular weekly communicant at the Methodist church on G street. It must not be inferred, how-ever, that Warner is so given up to the contemplation of the hereafter as to be oblivious of the potitical outlook and other worldly things. It has been noticed by his fellow-churchmen that he is always accompanied by his wife, who puts hyonoccompanied by his wife, who puls hymn-books and testaments into his hands at the books and testaments into his hands at the proper times and coaches him generally in the services. It has been observed, too, that he never appears interested in the sermon, and risses with too great precipita-tion when the Doxology has been sung. Some mean people have even insimuated that the Senator has no interest at all in religious matters, and that his regular at-tendance at services is thus to him wife. religious matters, and that his regular attendance at services is due to his wife, who is considered the most plous church-woman in Washington. However this may be, certain it is that the portly Warner is put down by the preacher as one of the most valued members of his flock.

Of the members of the House, a little man named George West, of Ballston Spa, New York, is the brightest church light. Politicians will be surprised that there is a man named West in Congress, but members of the Methodist Church nearly everywhere have heard of the charitable

Out of his own purse he contribu-ed sufficient money to build a handsome tone church at his home, and no man in or out of New York has done more for the oreign mission of the M. E. Church. Mr., West enjoys the distinction of baing the Vest enjoys the distinction of being the Anderson, oi Kansas, is another religious man. He was once a Presbyterian preacher and a chapiain in the California Volunteers. Being an ordained minister, his political position does not exclude him from the pulpit. At home he frequently preaches during the intervals between the sessions of Congress and while here has ssions of Congress and while here has lelivered several sermons at the New York Avenue Presbyterian church, His religion is not of the gloomy kind. Among the well known church deacons in the House of Representatives are Pettl-bone, of Tennessee; Forney, of Alabama; Irion, of Louisiana; McCreary, of Ken-tucky; Tucker, of Virginia, and Elisberry, of Ohio.

HARD TO IMPROVE. An Old Letter on the Ever Living Temper ance Question.

The following letter of President John Adams, which we reprint from a yellow scrap of an old newspaper at the request of a friend, is as generally applicable, in phrase and purpose, in 1886 as it was when written, sixty-seven years ago. John Adams was a man with very strong moral perceptions, and his expression was equal-y clear. Since his time the cause of temly clear. Since his time the cause of temperance has been the topic of an immensa amount of literature, but this delineation of the selishness of the drunkard is unique in its point and force. Drunkenness excites so much pity for its victim that we often forget that it is the most selfish of vices. Its enjoyment is confined to the drunkard, and its dreadful penalties fall upon the innocent and the virtuous. The letter is one to be read and pondered; it cannot be improved upon in its presentation of the beastliness of the drinkers indulgence.

LETTER FROM THE HON. MR. ADAMS.
QUINCY, February 21, 1819.

DEAR Sirs. I thank you for your address to the New Bedford Auxiliary Society for the Suppression of Intemperance, which I have read with pleasure and edification. It abounds in ingenuity and information; it is elegant and pathetic; it is plous and virtuous; it addresses itself to the understanding and the heart.

A drankard is the most selfish being in the univers. He has no sense of duty, or sympathy of affection with his friend or neighbor, his wife or children; no reverence for his Ged; no sense of futury in this world or the other—all is swallowed up in the mad, selfish joy of the moment.

Is it not humiliating, that Mahometans and Hindoos should put to shame the whole Christian world, by their superior examples of temperance? Is it not degrading to Eagishmen and Americans that, they are so infinitely exceeded by the French in this cardinal virtue? And is it not mortifying beyond all expression, the way are not interpretation.
